You should never cyberbully because you can really hurt people .You might think that it's ok but it's not .You would not like if someone did it to you so don't do it. You can get into serious trouble, nobody will want to be your friend. Cyberbullying is where you bully someone online for example saying that they're ugly to that person.To confront a cyber bully you tell them to stop being a cyberbully to yourself or everyone else in the world. Bullying and cyber bullying are similar to each other. It's like you're standing right in front of the person saying it. People will lose respect for you because you're being a bully so that's why you're not supposed to be a bully. Trust me I did assignment online about this and they were saying that you could go to jail so I'm not going to do it because I don't want to go to jail and you should not do it either ,you don't want to go to jail and hurt someone really bad. I'm not saying you're a bully or that you're mean just if you see someone bullying don't be a bystander and don't tell an adult because then it's like your being the bully. If you are the person or you know somebody that is a bully you guys need to STOP! It's not right and people will not allow it so don't do it, I mean that from the bottom of my heart.
