

What I Learned

by Jasmine Baharmast

What I learned on Learning.com is a lot of fun things. My most favorite thing that I learned are things about e-mailing.

I've always wanted an email account, but I'm not allowed to have one yet. First, I learned about how to respond to emails that someone sent me. To open it, you need to double click a message that you know who sent it to you, and why they did. NEVER open an email that you don't know who sent you the message. It could be a scam or junk mail. A scam is a message that can mess up a computer or a laptop and junk mail is mail that can say 'Get free candy! Click here!' You don't want to click what everyone else says.

The second thing that I learned is about Cyber Bullying. Cyber Bullying is when someone bullies you in Cyberspace. Cyberspace is the internet. If a friend gets cyber bullied, ask the person to stop. If that doesn't work, tell a trustworthy parent, teacher, or an adult about the bullying. If you get bullied, the same rules apply. Ask them to stop, then tell a teacher or parent. Never cyber bully back. That can lead to trouble.

Learning.com is a great way to learn about many different things. I think you should try Learning.com if you love technology. I hope you have fun!

Tips

- make a strong password.
- NEVER tell anyone your password.
- be careful with what you tell someone.
- always have fun!